

Question:

- My husband and I stay with his parents and his mother is unbearable. We have endless problems to the point that he keeps threatening divorce. What do I do? Answer:

If talking to your husband has not worked, we suggest you speak to an elder of the family who your husband respects. Request the elder to discuss the matter with your husband. If your husband could be convinced to go to an experienced Aalim for advice, it will be even better. Nevertheless, in the interim we have the following advice for you:

1. While you are making attempts to resolve the situation, be rest assured that you are being greatly rewarded for your sabr. Many women became great saints of their time due to exercising sabr.

2. Despite the problems, continue respecting your husband and showing extra attention to him. This will win his heart.

3. Never neglect making earnest duas after every salaah and at other times.

3. Daily read the Fazaail e Aamal in your home for at least 10 minutes.

4. Recite an abundance of durood shareef.

5. Recite the following 7 times daily and make dua for love between you and your husband, Ya subboohu Ya quddoosu Ya ghafooru Ya wadoodu.

May Allah Taala unite your hearts, Aameen.
